Instructor Background: Like many students at CCSJ, I am a first generation college student that hails from a working class family. My mother emigrated from Norway after the Nazi invasion of Oslo during World War II. My father dropped out of high school and earned his G.E.D. in the army where he served in Korea shortly after the Korean War. Later, he worked for CTA in Chicago as a laborer and foreman with the South Shops. As for me, I attended Indiana University Northwest for my undergraduate degree while I worked full-time. Buckling under the pressure of juggling work and school, I left college for a decade to pursue a career in retail management for Wal-Mart and Office Depot. Unhappy, I returned to college, taking classes in the evening until I completed my bachelor's degree in English. Soon after, I earned a master's degree in American Literature with a minor in American Studies from Indiana University in Bloomington. I live in the historic Pullman neighborhood on Chicago's far South Side, which President Barack Obama declared a national monument in 2015. I am passionate about social justice, politics, and cultural heritage preservation.

It explores the genre both as form of writing and as a performance, surveys the masterpieces of world drama, the world's great dramatists, and the most important dramatic movements in world drama.

Learning Strategies:

Direct instruction with PowerPoint and other visual aids will be used to provide and reinforce required course content. Students are expected to prepare handwritten notes during periods of direct instruction, including during class discussions. Students' notes should include the day/date of the class session. They should also include a list of unfamiliar vocabulary encountered during direct instruction and class discussions. These notes should be assembled into a chronological archive and stored in a notebook, a folder, or on a digital platform. Student notes may be reviewed and/or collected periodically gauge student participation.

Reading is essential to mastering the learning objectives of this course. Students should be prepared to read, re-read, annotate, summarize, discuss, and analyze dramatic texts. Reading regularly will also help expand students' vocabulary and strengthen their ability to "decode" the meaning, structure, and rhetorical situation of literary texts.

Writing is essential to mastering the learning objectives of this course. Students should be prepared to pre-write (list, brainstorm, freewrite), write (draft), re-write (revise), edit, and publish (print/post) a variety of writing assignments. Students will prepare a mixture of explanatory summaries, academic essays, exploratory and expressive writing assignments (e.g., online discussion forum posts, freewriting, journals, reader response).

Oral Communication is essential to mastering the learning objectives of this course. Students should be prepared to formulate their ideas orally during full-class or small-group discussions. Students may also be asked to deliver oral presentations related to course reading and writing assignments.

Individualized Instruction will be provided at various times during the course, particularly to assist students in the writing process. These interactions (e.g., informal paper conferences) provide an opportunity for students to ask questions, respond to instructor feedback, and gain greater control over their personal writing process.

Online Instruction will be incorporated throughout the course. This will include regular use of Blackboard and may include assigned online grammar, vocabulary, reading, and writing exercises and assessments.

Students can track their current grade in Blackboard by viewing the “Weighted Grade” column in the course gradebook. Students’ final grade will be determined based on their performance in four different areas, weighted as follows:
	1. History of Theater Guide: Students will be assigned an historical time period from the development of Western theatrical tradition. These journals should 1) offer interesting insights about the characters, language, theme(s) of the play and 2) pose questions about the text and offer your own speculative answers to these questions. The later journals will be composed while on our trip to Stratford. These journals will analyze the productions. How do they correspond or challenge our readings of the text? How would you evaluate their quality? How did they deviate from your expectations? Your journals, though primarily academic, should also include details about how the trip is affecting you on a personal as well as an intellectual level.	20%

3. Final Essay: You will attend the Stratford Shakespeare Festival. Choose one (or more with instructor approval) of the following plays as the subject of your analysis: Othello , The Merry Wives of Windsor , or Private Lives . Responsibilities

Attending Class: You cannot succeed in this class if you do not attend. We believe that intellectual growth and success in higher education occur through interaction in the classroom and laboratories. Being absent doesn't excuse you from doing class work; you have more responsibilities to keep up and meet the objectives of this course.

Students who miss more than SIX (6) hours of class will receive a zero (0) for the attendance portion of their final grade.

In accordance with the English Program attendance policy, any student missing more than NINE (9) hours of class will receive an F (a failing grade) for the course.

Turning in Your Work : You cannot succeed in this class if you do not turn in all your work on the day it is due.

To pass the course, you must complete and turn in all required assignments. Work is to be turned in at the beginning of class on the due date listed on the course syllabus or stated by the instructor in-class or online. All written work must be typed and stapled (unless otherwise instructed).

Late Work: You will not receive credit for any late assignment unless you have made formal, written arrangements with the instructor via email prior to the next scheduled class session. Any work submitted more than five days late will receive a zero. Contact me at mcassello@ccsj.edu to determine how/where you should submit any late work. In other words, do not show up to class a week after an assignment is due, hand in your work, and expect to receive credit for it.

Missed In-class Work: Except under dire circumstances (e.g., serious bodily injury requiring hospitalization or prolonged illness) in-class activities such as worksheets, journals, quizzes, review of notes/annotations, presentations, performances, group work, etc. cannot be made up if you are absent on the day the assignment is due.

Meeting Standards for Classroom Behavior:

- Use all the class time. Come to class on time and stay in class until the end. Coming late, leaving early, and getting up during class disrupts the class and disrespects others.
- Come prepared. Bring your texts, be prepared to take notes, and be able to demonstrate that you have completed the assignments for the day through your participation in class.
- Respect others. Listen when your classmates and the instructor are speaking. Think about their contributions. Respond appropriately.
- Use electronic devices only for class purposes. Engage with your classmates and the instructor without technological distractions.
- Eat before or after class. Consume meals, snacks, and other food items outside of the classroom. Eating during class detracts from the learning environment. Drinks, cough drops, hard candy, etc. are permitted, so long as they do not become a distraction.

CCSJ Student Honor Code:

This course asks students to reaffirm the CCSJ Student Honor Code:

I, as a student member of the Calumet College academic community, in accordance with the college's mission and in a spirit of mutual respect, pledge to:

- Continuously embrace honesty and curiosity in the pursuit of my educational goals;
- Avoid all behaviors that could impede or distract from the academic progress of myself or other members of my community;
- Do my own work with integrity at all times, in accordance with syllabi, and without giving or receiving inappropriate aid;
- Do my utmost to act with commitment, inside and outside of class, to the goals and mission of Calumet College of St. Joseph.

Doing Your Own Work:

If you turn in work that is not your own, you will be subject to judicial review by the Faculty-Student Grievance Committee. These procedures can be found in the Student Planner. The maximum penalty for any form of academic dishonesty is dismissal from the College.

Using standard citation guidelines to document sources avoids plagiarism. You'll find guides to the major citation methods at the CCSJ Specker Library Web page at

<http://www.ccsj.edu/library/subjectsplus/subjects/guide.php?subject=cite>

PLEASE NOTE: All papers may be electronically checked for plagiarism.

Sharing Your Class Experience:

Your voice matters! At the end of the term, you will have the opportunity to evaluate your classroom experience. These confidential surveys are essential to our ongoing efforts to ensure that you have a great experience that leaves you well prepared for your future. Take the time to complete your course evaluations – we value your feedback!

Withdrawing from Class:

After the last day established for class changes has passed (see the College calendar in the CCSJ Course Catalog), you may withdraw from a course by following the policy outlined in the Course Catalog.

Communicating with your Professor:

Blackboard: Blackboard will be used to distribute readings, handouts, and announcements. Your grades will also be recorded regularly in Blackboard. It is essential that you log into Blackboard regularly to ensure that you stay informed about the course. If the campus is closed or class cancelled due to bad weather, alternative assignments will be distributed via Blackboard and must be completed on time.

Office Hours: Students are encouraged to use office hours for assistance and clarification. Office hours are an excellent forum to discuss individual questions which are not appropriate during class (a question about your particular assignment, a question about the English Program, your attendance, etc.). Appointments are not necessary, but they help me to prepare for your visit and ensure that I will not be out of the office. My office hours are specified on the first page of the syllabus.

Email: I will use CCSJ's email to send urgent announcements about class or assignments. You should use CCSJ's email to communicate about absences and to ask small but important questions (e.g. clarification about an assignment). Don't use email to request information or materials readily available elsewhere (e.g. due dates ← listed on the syllabus, handouts ← available on Blackboard). I generally respond to emails within 24-48 hours with the exception of breaks/holidays when I may be unavailable until the next scheduled business day.

Phone Calls: Reserve phone calls for urgent communications. For example, call if you have a flat tire and will be unable to make it to class or if you have been snowed in. My office phone number is (219) 473-4322.

In all instances (Blackboard, office hours, email, phone), remember that communication with college instructors should always maintain standards of professionalism and formality.
